Where do you work and what is your role there?

I have been on Oxford's Sustainability Team for almost a decade. I've had the pleasure of working alongside a strong group of individuals that work towards building strategies and targets across climate and energy, materials and resources, wellbeing, and community.

What areas of commercial real estate do you specialize in?

I specialize in green buildings - strategy development, reporting, and certifications for office, retail, industrial, multi-res, hotels, and mixed-use. Both existing assets and new developments.

What do you find is most satisfying or challenging in your role?

Oxford is a leader in sustainability. We set ambitious targets, have clear operating standards around key areas such as with our energy management program and green building certifications, and have been reporting on our ESG data since 2008. That said, leadership is hard work. Our group has to be innovative and persistent in order to hold that position.

How long have you been a CREW member and what do you get most out of being a member?

I was a Toronto CREW member for one year in 2018 and was thrilled to participate in some key events. It's an incredibly welcoming group of people. The networking opportunities are endless. I am happy to be back after being on leave.

I would like CREW members to call me whenever they need . . .

...To chat about life, balancing career and personal aspirations, or even sustainability and the built environment. I am always happy to learn from others.
