Farrah Khimji
Founder, Futura Funds

www.futurafunds.ca   @futurafunds

Farrah's passion and purpose is to be an ambassador in the commercial real estate industry – one that advocates for progress, champions change and challenges the status quo.

Farrah is the Founder of Futura Funds, an investment platform for women to be ambassadors for innovation in commercial real estate. More specifically, Futura Funds has formed an exclusive network of highly motivated women that are looking to propel their careers by championing innovation into their organizations and network. Futura Funds achieves this by curating a pipeline of commercial real estate technology companies that are then integrated into the industry by its ambassador network.

Farrah leverages over 15 years of finance, accounting and advisory experience where she has helped business owners in the real estate industry make strategic financial decisions to reach their company goals. She has worked for both a large property owner, manager and developer as well as a private equity fund – entities that were both invested in commercial real estate and development assets in Canada and across the world. This experience allows her to understand and support the financial strategies for established, institutional, large-scale business environments as well as the needs of small, mid-sized and start-up businesses.

Farrah is active in the commercial real estate industry where she currently serves as the President-Elect for Toronto CREW and Treasurer for NAIOP Greater Toronto. Farrah is also very passionate and committed to supporting Diversity & Inclusion initiatives as an advocate in her current & previous companies, speaker on this topic at several industry events & conferences and in her capacity as a member of REALPAC's Diversity & Inclusion Committee.

Farrah has a Degree in Commerce from McMaster University, a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from Wilfrid Laurier University and also holds a Charted Professional Accountant designation (CA, CPA).